

Dialogue: [episode 4]

Cooper: The theme of the day is the lotus flower. The lotus is a symbol of purity and self-respect. That's why I asked you to wear white clothes.

Nana: You want to express the idea of "untouched by anything unclean," is that it?

Cooper: Exactly! You did your homework.

Nana: Is the lotus a common flower in Taiwan?

Cooper: It's common to see many lotus fields in central and southern Taiwan. It's even more common to use some parts of the lotus plant as an ingredient in Chinese cuisine.

Nana: The Chinese cook the lotus?

Cooper: Sure. You can cook the seed, the rootstalk, and the leaf. You can even use it in Chinese medicine.

Nana: Ah, I get it! This way, we can think of the lotus as beautiful, but also as useful.

Cooper: What sort of feeling does the lotus give you?

Nana: Umm, it's elegant, reminds me of some romantic era, like the Renaissance or something like that. .

Cooper: Excellent! Keep that in mind while we're shooting today. Would you sit beside the pond, please? Let the breeze blow on you.